

THEO. N. VAIL, NOTED
TELEPHONE PROMOTER,
DIED EARLY THIS A. M.

Was Man Who Accomplished Merger of Telegraph and Phones.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Baltimore, Md., April 16.—Theodore N. Vail, chairman of the board of directors of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company died at Johns Hopkins hospital this morning of a complication of cardiac and kidney troubles.

Mr. Vail was brought here from Jekyll Island, Georgia, last Sunday in his private car. At the hospital it was stated that he was in a serious condition when he reached there and his death was not unexpected to the physicians.

As President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Theodore Newton Vail was the head of the largest telephone system in the world. He was not only its nominal head, but he was from the first the genius that promoted the popular use of the telephone, the first man to establish long-distance communication by telephone, and, when past seventy years of age, he was still the initiative head of a system that numbered nine million telephone subscribers and represented an investment of a billion and a half dollars.

Mr. Vail was thirty-one years old when Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone, and, notwithstanding his age, he was filling the responsible post of General Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service. Still earlier, however, he had been a telegraph operator, and, interested in the possibilities of electrical communication, he had visions that Bell's "toy" would some day be a great factor in American life. Bell and his associates had equal faith in Mr. Vail's organizing genius, for he had already made a name for himself as an organizer in the promotion of the Railway Mail Service, and he was readily induced to resign his government post to become the General Manager, in 1878, of the first American Bell Telephone Company.

Even the most optimistic backers of the telephone then thought that the invention would serve only for local communication, but Mr. Vail had visions of its long-distance use. It was he who inaugurated successive steps of inter-city communication. The first line from Boston to Providence was ridiculed as "Vail's side-show," but some of the persons who indulged in the ridicule at that time lived to see Mr. Vail telephone, not only from Boston to Providence, but from New York to San Francisco, in 1915, thirty-five years later. Further, in October in that year, they found that it was possible to send the human voice more than half way around the world, as was done by wireless telephone from the government station at Arlington, Va., the words being recorded simultaneously at Honolulu, in the mid-Pacific, and the Eiffel Tower, in Paris.

Mr. Vail was known as "the biggest telephone man in the world," not only in tribute to his genius for both mechanical and financial organization but from the fact that he was personally a man of remarkable physique. He was six feet, two inches tall, and weighed about 280 pounds. With this great physique he had an infinite capacity for hard work, and a genial disposition.

Tanner's Relatives Living in England

One of the officers of Dixon Post, American Legion went to Morrison yesterday morning and offered the services of the local post in assisting in any way possible in the case of Private Robert Tanner, who died from injuries he received when he jumped from the vestibule of North-western passenger train, No. 22 about 5 o'clock yesterday morning near Union Grove. Commander Ramsey of Morrison, head of the Legion post of that city had offered services and was caring for the body.

The local officer stated this morning that following the inquest the Morrison post would conduct a military funeral service for the soldier, whose body will be taken back to Denver where he was stationed at a medical post. Private Tanner, it was learned yesterday was about 19 years of age and his parents and relatives reside in Lancaster, England.

Says Wife Took His Funds and Ran Away with Family Friend

Jim Lee, colored, residing in the west end of the city came to Sheriff Schoenholtz' office in the county jail last night and reported that his wife had departed suddenly, supposedly with another man of her race, for parts unknown. He begged the assistance of the sheriff's force in attempting to locate her, that he might bring her back to Dixon.

Not only did Jim's wife flee without informing him, but according to his report, she went to the bank and drew out more than $200. She packed her trunk full of clothes and is said to have shaken the dust of Dixon from her feet about 11 o'clock yesterday morning, going east on the North-western.

North Siders Pupils Will Hold Election

The North side high school students are taking great interest in the presidential campaign. They are having Booster Clubs, campaign meetings, and this morning was election. On Thursday afternoon there was a campaign meeting conducted by the Junior English class under Miss Fay. The members gave very fine talks on the different candidates. Miss Emma Craig started the meeting by giving one of the best talks of the afternoon, her candidate being Gov. Lowden. Charles LeSage followed by giving some very interesting facts about Mr. McAdoo. Miss Verna Boede was the next speaker representing Hiram Johnson. Robert Rhodes represented Herbert Hoover and Clinton Ives representing Gen. Wood. Last but not least was a talk about William Jennings Bryan by Miss Margaret Knick. Her talk on the grape juice candidate was enjoyed by all.

The election was held Friday morning, conducted by the Civics Class under Miss Murdock. The judges were George Beirs and John Hoon. The clerks were Miss Irene Miller and Miss Winifred Scott. The results will be announced later.

The movement in this class under Miss Thompson, has organized a Booster Club to boost one of the candidates.

Overall Clubs Are Becoming Real Thing

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Kansas City, Mo., April 16.—The "Overalls Clubs" movement, intended as a protest against the high prices of clothing is spreading rapidly throughout the southwest, according to reports received here today.

Dispatches said clubs had been formed in numerous places in Missouri, Kentucky, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas.

The movement in Missouri began at Jefferson City where according to the reports, state house officials and employees are signing pledges to wear denim until clothing prices are reduced.

Kansas City, Kas., was one of the larger cities in that state to announce the formation of a club. The organization there, it was declared had the support of the chamber of commerce.

The inaugural "outfit" of Rev. Joseph Brogan, Mayor-elect of Emporia, Kas., and President-elect of the Emporia Overall Club, will be overalls, according to his announcement. The Emporia Club reports several hundred members.

W. W. Gilbert is transacting business in DeKalb today.

RAIL STRIKE SITUATION

WEST
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 16.—Speedy disintegration of unauthorized railroad strikes in the central and far west was forecast today with a serious blow struck by the government at the insurgents' stronghold in Chicago by the arrest of 23 strike leaders.

The arrest of the Chicago leaders, who were at liberty today under bonds of $10,000, or arranging for bail, left local insurgents virtually leaderless. Five other leaders for whom warrants have been issued were expected to surrender today.

Federal officials announced they had gained their objective in the strike and indicated that no further arrests were scheduled.

Call "Resignation."

The arrested leaders, including John Grunau, organizer of the Chicago yardmen's association, the first organization which went on strike, and Harold E. Reading, president of the United Enginemen's Ass'n, denied that a strike existed in violation of the Lever act. They said they simply had resigned because they could not live on existing wages.

Although some leaders declared they had "just begun to fight," it was understood that a meeting held during the day to determine the attitude of the insurgent organizations towards the government's ultimatum that interference with shipments of food and other necessities must stop.

More Warnings Issued.

Warnings were issued in the principle strike centers in the west that unless the men returned to work by tomorrow their positions would be declared vacant and new men employed.

In Chicago 850 switchmen employed on various roads returned to work yesterday, railroad executives announced, while a continued improvement was reported in traffic conditions. Steel mills at Gary, Ind., where 10,000 workers have been idle were preparing to resume operations today.

The situation in Michigan and Ohio where several hundred thousand industrial workers have been made idle, remained virtually unchanged.

Freight Traffic To West.

Restoration of freight traffic in Pacific coast states was indicated by announcement at Los Angeles that the Order of Railway Conductors had agreed with Southern Pacific officials to respond to future calls for train service regardless of strike conditions. The agreement was said to affect all Southern Pacific lines from Portland, Ore., to El Paso, Texas and Ogden, Utah.

Passenger service on the Pacific coast was reported practically normal. Southern Pacific officials said freight traffic was nearly normal on some of its California lines and was being restored on others.

Strikers were reported returned to work at St. Louis and at Kansas City yesterday, chairman issued an ultimatum to strikers to report to work or before tomorrow under penalty of lower their seniority rights.

MAYOR REQUESTS INFORMATION ON BRIDGE REPAIRS

Writes Contractor Asking Why Work Has Not Begun.

As a culmination of numerous inquiries as to the date of the beginning of repair work on the Galena avenue bridge, Mayor Mark D. Smith yesterday addressed a letter to Contractor Shons of Freeport, in which the desired information was sought. The contractor at the time the contract was let, announced that some of the material would begin to arrive March 1. To date there is no evidence of any material on the ground and no definite time has been set, as far as is known for the beginning of the work.

The condition of the plank floor of the bridge, the mayor's letter complains, is very dangerous and to replace it will entail quite an expense. The members of the city council have been receiving no end of inquiries and complaints from business men and citizens, who are anxious to know when work will be started and asking why it is not already under way.

The contractor in a letter some time ago stated that some delay had been caused in not being able to secure the steel required to repair the structure, and this was followed by another letter a few weeks ago, in which Mr. Shons announced that the steel had been secured and that work would be started just as soon as the weather would permit. The members of the council are not exactly impatient, but request some definite information as to how soon work will be started so that the repair work can be completed by September 1, as specified in the contract.

Elgin Furniture Co. Suffers Bad Blaze

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Elgin, Ill., April 16.—The main store of A. Leath & Co., here was badly damaged by fire which started early this morning from defective electric wiring. Practically all of the house furnishings on two floors of the three story building were destroyed or damaged beyond repair by fire and water. No estimate of the damage could be made two hours after the fire, but the loss will run far into the thousands.

The general store and main offices of the Leath & Co. are located here. Branch stores are located in ten other cities of northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and Iowa.

The Misses Salona and Drucie Lookingland were Dixon shoppers on Wednesday from Franklin Grove.

HEADS OF RUMP UNIONS READY TO GO TO JAIL

Deny Fighting Government; Will Not Give Bonds.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 16.—John Grunau, president of the Chicago Yardmaster's Association, and H. E. Reading, president of the United Enginemen's Association, the two "outlaw" railway unions, announced that they would go to jail on the government charge of conspiracy to violate the Lever act.

The two, with twenty-two of their followers, were arrested yesterday by federal agents and released on their own recognizance until 2 o'clock this afternoon to give them a chance to obtain the $10,000 bond by Commissioner Mason.

Won't Raise Bonds.

"I can raise the required bail with ease," Grunau said "but I don't intend to do it. I question the right of the government to arrest me. I have committed no crime against the laws of the country, and if the government officials want to put me in jail I won't hinder them."

Reading declared that "its principle that prompts me to go to jail rather than give bail."

"The organization will not disband," he said. Another set of officers will take the places left vacant by those who choose to go to jail with me. There will be no let up in our campaign.

FIGHTING BROTHERHOODS

We have no quarrel with the government or with the railroads. What we are fighting is the old autocrat rule of the brotherhoods.

Our only compromise will be for them to accept our constitution, including the initiative, referendum and recall as applied to the administration of the brotherhoods."

Department of justice agents were hunting today for five men who escaped the dragnet spread over union meetings yesterday. One of the five is Bennett G. Dolan, a four minute speaker during the war and brother of a former municipal judge.

Wood Gets But Two Counties in State

By Associated Press Leased Wire

The vote in Pulaski county according to these figures gave Lowden 544 and Wood 537. In Alexander county the vote was Lowden 694 and Wood 692. General Wood's victory in Cook and McDonough counties is ironclad.

Kewanee Quiet as Troops Guard City

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Kewanee, Ill., April 16.—Kewanee was quiet this morning.

Six hundred reserve militiamen from Chicago, called here two days ago to suppress rioting in connection with the strike of 3,000 employees of the Walworth Manufacturing company, barred loiterers from the streets and prevented strikers from congregating near the plant when the 800 workmen on duty reported for work.

Adjutant General Dickson who took personal command of the guards men announced today that the soldiers would be kept here as long as there was any prospect of trouble.

SUNSHINE CLASS SUPPER—

The fifty members of the Sunshine class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school who gathered at the church last evening for the monthly meeting spent a very pleasant evening. The meeting was preceded with a scramble supper, Easter lilies decorating the tables and the rooms. After the supper the Sunday school orchestra furnished several delightful numbers and Horace Mulkins, accompanied by his teacher, John Norton, at the piano, sang two beautiful selections. Yearly reports and the installation of officers were included in the business of the evening. The new officers took their chairs after the installation and the business of the evening was completed. Rev. L. W. Walter gave an address to the officers installed which was most inspiring. The program closed with some readings by Miss Romona Schweser of Nachusa, and a piano solo by Mrs. Fred A. Mulkins, which the class members greatly enjoyed.

E. R. B. CLASS MEETING—

Notwithstanding the steady down-pour of rain, sixteen members and four guests of the E. R. B. Class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school assembled for the monthly class meeting at the home of Miss Mamie Remmers on Thursday evening. The meeting opened with scripture reading by Miss Laura Long, the president, and with prayer, offered by the teacher, Bert Robinson. The transaction of some routine business was followed by the giving of three delightful readings by Miss Hiller, whose numbers are always greatly enjoyed by the class. Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Walter were present and the former gave a most helpful talk on Sunday school work. With Mrs. Leitz and Mrs. Lambert assisting Miss Remmers, the members were served most excellent refreshments.

Mrs. Dogwiler rendered a pleasing vocal solo and a piano solo by Miss Grace Johnson gave a great deal of pleasure. Delicious refreshments were served at the conclusion of the session.

Our Candidate for President
FRANK O. LOWDEN
TASTE AND SMELL.

People often wonder why things taste so much like their smell. The explanation is that a large amount of taste is smell. Sweet, sour, salt and bitter are true tastes.

The coldness or smoothness of ice cream;
the heat of coffee depend on touch, and are not tastes at all. But the flavor of the ice cream and the aroma of the coffee are matters of smell; for there is a passage from the back of the mouth to the back of the nose,
and through it one smells while eating.

And so he says he "tastes" what he really smells.

One proof of this is that a cold in the head,
which closes the nasal passages, makes the best of coffee taste like dishwater. Another is that candies or fruits or vegetables all taste
very much alike when the person eating them holds his nose and takes care not to let the air move from the mouth to the nose by the back passage.

The sweetness of sugar and the bitter of chocolate may remain; but the distinct flavor of peppermint, wintergreen or vanilla is gone; apple is indistinguishable from potato, and all the different vegetables, even the onions, might have been cooked in the same pot.

This connection between the two senses explains why poor children can sometimes be seen eating their simple lunch at the open cellar window of a bake shop. The savory odors flavor the lunch.

BESTOWING BRAINS

Two hundred years ago John Locke said that God did not make man two-legged creature and leave it to the logician Aristotle to make him rational. Yet friendly critics of the public schools continually complain that they do not teach their pupils to think—to be alert and to deal successfully with all kinds of new situations.

The charge is true, but absurd. For all the schooling in the world cannot create brains in a creature born without them, or add a single ounce to what is already there,
any more than training can improve a stumbled breed of cattle. If it could intelligence would not run in families, and there would be no serious problem of the feeble-minded.

The function of a school is not to teach pupils to think, but to give them something worth thinking about. It is not to make them alert and enterprising; but to see that the alertness and enterprise which they already have carries them into some decent place in society and not into the gutter.

A school cannot teach anyone to do entirely new things successfully. That is a matter of brains and luck. But it can train its pupils beforehand in the doing of many things that life is likely to demand of them; so that when the time for action comes they will flounder
less than they otherwise would have.

To its brighter pupils the school can teach general principles which give meaning to the routine of later work.

It can help them all to find their level far,
far more easily than they could without it.

VENUS

Of all the members of the solar system besides the Earth, Venus, on the surface, appears to have the best chance of being inhabited. Venus is more like the Earth in every respect than any other planet and hence is in
as good a position, at least, to contain organic life, as this one.

Earth is 7913 miles in diameter; Venus
7726 miles. Venus is only 67,200,000 miles from the sun compared to Earth's 92,900,- 000. An Earth year contains 12 months; Venus has only seven months.

Venus has an atmosphere comparable in volume to that enveloping Earth. Venus receives per unit area about twice as much light and heat from the sun as does Earth.

The length of the day is unknown, but it is reasonable to believe it is about the same as
on Earth.

It is argued that because the average temperature on Venus is 150 degrees while on Earth it is only 60 degrees, life on the former planet would be difficult because of the intense heat. But it is known that a dense atmospheric ring surrounds Venus,
which in fact makes observations difficult,
and which might tend to neutralize the difference in distance from the sun.

There is no reason for doubting that Venus is inhabited. The only question is when will someone come along and discover something that will permit communication?

OVERPRODUCTION

It is difficult to believe, these days, that there can be such a thing as over-production by labor. And such instances are rare. Hence the reason for introducing you to A. E. Emery of Oakland, Calif.

Mr. Emery is 87 years old.
His fault, if it be a fault, is his desire to end the house shortage speedily.

Following the bent of his desire, Mr. Emery engaged himself in the business of lath-ing his house. He lathed by day and he lath-ed by night. "This nocturnal lathing disturbed the slumbers of neighbors. They called the police.

A guardian of law and order called upon
Mr. Emery at 3 o'clock one morning. Mr.
Emery was lathing. And lathing is a noisy occupation, bing, bing, bing—nail after nail, with the taps punctuated at intervals by the rasping of a saw.

The limb of the law arrested Mr. Emery for "disturbing the peace."

But the judge, or somebody higher up, released the aged workman.

"Such industry should be rewarded, not punished," he observed.

Yes, the country could use quite a few more Emery workers, couldn't it?

JUMPERS

It won't be long now until the schools and colleges begin holding their annual track meets. Broad, high and hurdle jumpers again will attempt to break leading records.
And they again will prove that man is a third-rate jumper when compared with other living things.

The broadest leap, made by Peter O'Connor, within a fourth of an inch of 25 feet in 1901, merely equaled George Washington's famous jump. Man may have progressed in other lines of endeavor, but not in jumping.
He jumps four times his height. Yet the flea can jump a hundred times its length, and the grasshopper can hop 200 times the length of its body.

However, man should worry because the flea and hopper can out-jump him! He has the railroad, street car and automobile.
You'd never catch the flea hopping if it rode
in a flivver, would you?

If the Danes restore constitutional conditions and get away with it, perhaps this country will try it.

Little Mary was out of the matrimonial drama just long enough to change reels.

JUST JOKING
SAVED HIM THE TROUBLE

Hubby—Goodby, love. In case I am really prevented from coming home to dinner I will send a telegram.
Wife—You need not trouble to send it; I have already taken it out of your coat pocket.—Dallas News.

Grace—Oh, Mr. Nocoynne, how lovely of you to bring me these beautiful roses. How sweet they are and how fresh!
I do believe there is a little dew on them yet.
Nocoynne—Well, yes, there is. But I'll pay it tomorrow.

CAPITALIZING THE ACCIDENT
Little Edna, who had read the advertisement, "Say it with flowers," was recently bumped into and bowled over by her uncle.
"Oh, dear, I'm very sorry," he apologized; to which Edna, picking herself up, replied, "Say it with candy, please."—Boston Transcript.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

THE SPILLED PAINT
After old Mr. Crow was gone, Rubadub, the fairy man, went back to scrubbing up the woodchuck, and Nancy and Nick picked up some little crocuses.

"You're dear little things!" said Nancy, cuddling two of the modest little flowers against her soft cheek. "You let everybody tramp on you and never say a word, so you're going to get your turn now, and you can be off to the Land Where Spring is Coming right away!"

So the twins got the big picture book to see just how crocuses should look and what colors to use, then they got paint and brushes and set to work.

After while Rubadub peeped at the row of finished blossoms. His little helpers were doing wonderfully well, and at the rate the creatures and flowers were getting fixed up he felt that Scrub-Up Land would soon be empty and he could take a rest. But what was that? All the crocuses were purple, or with the yellow paint?" he asked. "I'm sure the people will wonder why they have no yellow flowers on their lawns if you make them all one color."

"Pleasee sir," said Nick, "there isn't any more yellow paint. The canary got urled waiting for his turn and he spilled it."

"What?" cried Rubadub. "No yellow paint! And spring almost here!
What shall we do for the daffodils and tulips and dandelions, to say nothing of daisies and pansies and buttercups?"

"The Fairy Queen has a supply in her palace store room," said the Mag-

"Good!" said the fairy-man. "I'll send the fairies for some as soon as they return from sticking on the pussy willows."

BOO PEEP IN A NEW ROLE
Besides utilizing sheep as a source of food and clothing, the careful studies of the United States Public Health Service appear to indicate their value as sanitary agents. Ticks which carry Rocky Mountain spotted long, greasy wool and die. This prevents the spread of the disease.

So far as it is known this is the only disease which is peculiar to the United States. It is conveyed to man by the bite of a wood tick which buries its head beneath the skin of its victim and thus causes tick fever.

On the west side of the Bitter Root Valley in Montana the disease is unusually severe.

The United States Public Health Service rented a band of sheep and pastured them in that part of the Bitter Sweet Valley which hitherto had had the most cases.

It was found that they collected large numbers of ticks and these,
becoming entangled in the wool,
died. The sheep were carefully dip-

That I made my way un-portered,

All too boisterous and boys-y,
All too bored and Boarded,

As he'll do for the nation,

of uncleanness.
Primarily one should understand what the skin is for. It is not merely nature's covering for the bones, muscles and other tissues. It is the organ of touch; it plays an important part in regulating the heat of the body; it constitutes an important organ for eliminating certain waste from the body.

The first essential in caring for the skin is cleanliness. Bathe frequently and thoroughly, using any standard brand of soap. Rub the body vigorously, particularly any part of it on which there are pimples. Rinse
the soap off in fresh water and dry.

In case the skin is hard or dry after bathing, it may be advisable to rub the skin with a little olive oil,
cold cream, or other simple fat.

There is no such thing as a "skin
food", and the liberal use of creams and ointments for this purpose is both foolish and unwise, as the fat tends to overload the fat glands in the skin.

In many cases pimples and blackheads will respond to such treatment as outlined above. In case they do not, the breaking out may be caused by some internal disorder, possibly by an unbalanced diet.

It will, therefore, be well to consult a physician in the hope that he will be able to locate the trouble and advise you.

The face should be washed at least once a day in warm water and a good quality of soap. As a rule, care should be taken to avoid too vigorous rubbing. After the washing, the skin should be thoroughly rinsed in cold water and carefully dried. Drying the skin will prevent chapping.

Many women prefer to clean the skin of the face with cold cream,
rubbing this off with a towel or rag.
When this is done the face should always be washed afterwards in warm water and soap, as outlined above.

Experience has again and again
shown that cleanliness is, after all,
the greatest single factor in producing a beautiful skin. It is also an excellent hygienic measure, and the person who may not care about the texture of his skin may well keep his body clean as one means of preventing disease.

Some of our swellest speakers are

The highbrows say that is because they are too lazy to find the right

That may be, but the reason slang corals our angors as above noted is quite different.

We maintain slang takes too much

It keeps the ole think tank awake

Let's either can the slang or teach

My Cries Come From My Husband.

strong in love affairs—
So my dazed mind tangled itself up as I reviewed all of the reasons for all of the steps by which I had arrived at my horrible state. The reasons seemed so silly—the steps seemed so inevitable. It wasn't logical. I felt a sudden sympathy with criminals. All prisoners reasoned, I supposed, very much a I was doing.

At last I felt sure that my cell had descended by successive jerks and slides so far that its ceiling was many feet below the level of the floor of the secret chamber, where my would-be rescuers were so futilely employed.
It seemed to me that the noise which they made must arouse the dead in the vaults under the pavement of the church. Again a whisper answer to my cries was wafted to me from below and I shuddered. It seemed a ghostly wall
When the expected finally did happen, when the door above me fell in, it dropped to the top of my little cage—it broke through the ceiling, crashed close to me, and bruised my hand in its fall. I didn't mind that, however. I was glad that it had made a hole in the roof of my closet.

As soon as it had fallen, all noises ceased for me. My consciousness left me just as I was trying to imagine what would be the fate of the three good friends whom I had left behind in that secret chamber.

Would they—could they—be enticed into horrible traps as easily, as thoughtlessly as I had been?

Suddenly the dream voice of my husband—the voice I had heard above my own screaming—became a reality!

"You are not dead? For God's sake say something! Are you still alive?
Speak to me!"

The voice thrilled me but I couldn't speak. Fingers moved gently across my face. They lingered on my eyelids, and crept to the edge of my hair. Bob's fingers! I knew the soft touch of them and loved it as well as I know and loved the sound of Bob's voice.

"I would know the touch of your hands even if I were dead," I had declared to him, fondly a thousand times since our marriage. At that momentous midnight, New Year, 1920, I wondered if I were not dead in truth! And rescued—by some miracle of love—too late!

"It is you, Jane. One word—just one word—" my husband pleaded.

I opened my eyes and realized that we were engulfed in absolute darkness.
But what cared I for the light? I was alive—and Bob was breathing close to me! I could hear him—I could feel his breath on my face!

"Bob! Bob!" I whispered. His fingers still smoothed the coils of my hair as if so he felt most sure of me in the darkness.

"You! Jane! Darling!" he sobbed as he gathered me into his arms.
"Your screaming paralyzed me, Jane. I thought that I must be crazy. It was unthinkable that you should be thrown into this same hole—with me. Vengeance! I pray God to give me—"

"Sh-sh-sh—" I whispered, putting a finger across his lips. "We're together, dearest. We share the same dangers. If we are not to live together, we will have the joy of dying together. What more can fate grant us, darling?"

He put his face tight to my own for an answer. I clung to my husband as if our reunion did not, of itself, need explaining. And it did not, for the time.

"Where are we, Bob?" I asked.
"In a sub-cellar—an ancient dungeon. I was put down here and left to die. And you, darling! How did you come here?"

"Farmers must pay from 100 per

The small-farm area of the Atlantic slope and the Great Lakes region will be hardest hit. In the prairie country, various machinery cuts
down the man-power requirements."

"Market gardeners will be pinched especially. Corn acreage will be less wheat somewhat less and oats least of all. There will be a large acreage of grasses. The cotton planters will have time, perhaps, to adjust them-much man-power as cotton. The out-look for potatoe production is uncertain."

THE RUHR, CRIPPLED POWER PLANT OF AN EXHAUSTED EMPIRE

Reason for France's In- sistence in Keeping It in Control.

Washington, D. C. — "The Ruhr basin was the power plant of Germany's former industrial machine and mighty war engine, hence it is not surprising France should be suspicious of any movement which might lead to jockeying by 'junks' to regain control there," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"The peace treaty stipulation that Germany must not construct fortifications within 50 kilometers to the East of Rhine" loosens her absolute control over one of the richest coal fields in the shattered empire, over Ruhrort, which had the largest river harbor in Europe, over the once-busy factory cities along the Ruhr's crooked course, and, above all, over Essen, city of the Krupp cast steel and cannons.

"The confluence of the Ruhr and the Rhine was the geographic factor in making Ruhrort, though only one-twelfth the size of our own Pittsburgh, comparable in economic importance to that municipal child of the Ohio and Allegheny rivers. The entire region might be likened to western Pennsylvania.

"Between the Rhine and the Ruhr is Duisburg, city of rolling mills foundries and factories. Once this bee hive of industry was a university town, and a grimy memorial fountain to Gerardus Mercator, latinized form of Gerhard Kromer, is a reminder that the inventor of the famous projection method was associated with Cassander who, nearly four centuries ago, was commissioned to found the University of Duisburg. Kromer was not a German, it should be noted, but a Flemish geographer who studied at Louvain.

"But the crown jewel of the 'kult' which drove the earlier culture of university life out of the Ruhr basin was Essen, Essen, too, experienced a transformation, for it originally was the site of a Benedictine convent. For three centuries preceding its incorporation into Prussia, Essen was governed by the Abbees, who became ex-officio, princes. Duisburg is connected with the Ruhr by a canal.

"Though the Krupp works were founded in 1812, the year 1848 saw them with only 70 employees. But with the advent of railways and cast steel guns the Krupp works expanded rapidly and their subsequent story is famous - or infamous - for their incubation of wars.

"Muhlheim is a railway center, seven miles northwest of Essen, where convergence of rail and water routes brought an enormous traffic. Four miles east of Essen is another Ruhr river port, Steele, a mining town with iron and steel works, also noted for its fireproof bricks.

"Farther up the Ruhr is Witten, important not only for steel but also for beer, soap and chemicals. Within the area of the present disturbances, though it is on the Rhine, a scant five miles south of the Ruhr's mouth, is Dusseldorf. This is one of the most pretentious cities in western Germany. It was bombarded by the French in 1793, later was the capital of Berg when that State was a Napoleonic duchy, and passed to Prussia, with the rest of Berg, in 1815.

"The Ruhr basin coal fields not only were important to the German Empire because of their production, but because they alone were accessible for water transportation of ores. A canal connected Dortmund, a city of the Ruhr basin with the Ems River, thus affording an outlet directly to the North Sea at Emden.

"A by-product of this development of water transportation to care for the coal mining and the attendant iron and steel industry, was the growth of textile manufactures. In cotton spinning the Ruhr basin held first place in Germany. Nearly a third of the spindles in the Empire were located here.

"The Ruhr was made navigable from the Rhine to Witten, some forty-three miles, by means of locks. Even then low water frequently hampered navigation."

About Clothes Prices

WHEN you buy anything, you ought to be willing to pay at least what it cost to produce it; plus a margin of profit to the maker, and to the merchant who has brought the merchandise to you; where you can see it, examine it, try it on, decide that it's what you want.

The service rendered by the maker and the merchant are a part of what you pay for; you ought to pay for it willingly. If that service were not rendered there wouldn't be any merchandise here for you to buy.

Now, we aim to charge for our clothes merely "fair" prices; fair to both of us. We're going to make a fair profit, too. Our profit comes out of the money you pay us; yours comes out of the clothes you get.

"The Best is the Cheapest" more so today than ever before---because labor is a big factor in the price of clothes---and it costs nearly as much to make a poor garment as a good one. What you save in fabric is not worth while.

We are sticking closely to standard quality and representative brands of clothing.

In the long run you'll profit in buying this kind of clothing. You'll get more for your money and more satisfaction.

You can't afford to buy any other.

Monthly Report of the Palmyra Co-Operative Cow-Testing Association

By G. E. DICKSON, Tester

March report of G. E. Dickson, tester for the Palmyra Co-Operative Cow-Testing Association.

The month of March saw all records in the association smashed when H. E. Downing's herd of high grade Holsteins produced 46 lbs. milk and 1,729 lbs. butter fat per cow per day or 1426 lbs. milk and 5360 lbs. butter fat per cow per month. As this record was made upon a herd of cows, each one of which had been milked from two to thirteen months, it shows the result of the careful breeding, selection, and herd management which

Mr. Downing has given his stock. The herd was fed a ration of home grown feeds supplemented with oil meal and proves that expensive concentrates are in reality cheap feed when fed intelligently in a well balanced ration. Mr. Downing fed the following daily ration to his cows: 20 lbs. silage, 2 lbs. alfalfa, and a grain ration of 6 parts corn and cob meal, 6 parts ground oats, and one part oil meal.

Following is the list of the six leading herds in the association and their owners:

Owner	No. Cows	In Milk	Breed	AV. Daily Milk per Cow	Per Cent Butter Fat	AV. Monthly Milk per Cow	AV. Mo. B. F. per Cow
H. E. Downing	13	10	GH	46.0	3.76	1,729	53.60
Geo. Myers	10	8	PBH	35.1	4.18	1,332	41.29
Swartz Bros.	21	21	PBH&GS	31.5	4.99	1,240	38.44
G. M. Cassen	16	15	GH	27.3	4.22	1,153	35.74
F. R. Overholser	19	17	GH	29.0	3.9	1,133	35.12
Ebersole & Wetzel	21	20	PBH&GH	32.9	3.56	1,198	34.35

Mr. Henry Gilbert's herd of pure bred Brown Swiss headed the association for high testers, averaging 4.38 per cent, but were too far along in their lactation period to average high in amount of butter fat. Sixty-seven cows in the association averaged better than 40 lbs. butter fat for the month; the following eight of them producing above sixty pounds butter fat.

Name of Cow	Breed	Age	Lbs. Milk per Day	Lbs. Milk per Month	Per Cent Butter Fat	Owner
Tommy	GH	7	60.2	1866	4.0	H. E. Downing
Ortha	PBH	M	52.0	1612	4.4	Geo. Myers
Big Gilbert	GH	10	45.5	1411	4.8	Swartz Bros.
Grandma	GH	9	55.7	1727	3.9	H. E. Downing
One	GH&BrSw	7	61.2	1897	3.5	C. Hadden
Big Red Typewriter	GH	8	52.1	1615	4.0	Swartz Bros.
Daisy	GH	7	61.3	1900	3.3	H. E. Downing
Grace	GH	8	62.8	1947	3.2	H. E. Downing

But five unprofitable cows were found in the association this month and were recommended to be sold; five pure bred and ten grades were purchased. All members are on the lookout for better cows and are rapidly weeding out those which produce less than 7500 lbs. milk yearly.

The regular March meeting of the association was held at the home of the president, Miss Bessie Decker, Dixon, Ill., and was well attended in spite of almost impassable roads. Vocal selections by James Cleidon, of Dixon, and short talks by Mr. Warren, assistant Lee County adviser, and Mr. Cole, of Amboy, helped make the afternoon a most enjoyable and profitable one for all who attended.

At the business meeting the old adage, "Always room for one more" was again proved when the herd of Elwood Shawger and Lawrence LeFevre was admitted to the association making a total membership of twenty-nine herds.

The April meeting of the association will be held at the home of E.

Mrs. Albert Kauffman, of Amboy, visited relatives here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. McKinley Firkins of Shabbona, spent a couple of days the first of the week here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Schreck.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Potter was deeply saddened last week by the death of their little son, Kenneth, aged 4 years and 9 months.

About two weeks before the little one passed away he was stricken with the sleeping sickness to which he succumbed despite the efforts to keep the little one here and the good care given. A brief funeral service was held at the home and the body was laid away in the Wyoming cemetery. The family has the sympathy of all.

THERE are some inexpensive foods left in the grocery line after all is said about the high cost of living. For instance, Oatmeal at 7 cents per lb. would cost around one cent per person per meal and even with sugar and cream at present prices would make a cheap meal. Other cheap foods are Corn Meal at 5 cents per lb.; Navy Beans, 10 cents per lb.; Hominy, 7 cents per lb.; Dried Peas, 12½ cents per lb.; Ocean Whiting Fish, 10 cents per lb. In comparison with other foods it would be, roughly speaking, something like this:

$1.00 worth of Oatmeal, Hominy or Corn Meal would be about equal to—	Shredded Wheat .....$4.00
	Corn Flakes .....$5.00
	Puffed Cereals .....$6.00
	Most other prepared, ready to cook cereals from.....$3.00 to $4.00
	Potatoes, about .....$6.00

A $4.00 sack of Flour is equal to about $6.00 worth of Bread.

A dozen of Eggs at 43c is cheaper than the better cuts of meat and yet 10c worth of Navy Beans is worth about 75 cents worth of Eggs.

One pound of Nucoa Nut Butterine at 38c per lb., is equal to 77c worth of Butter.

$1.00 worth of Ocean Whiting Fish at 10c a lb., would be about equal to $3.00 to $5.00 worth of other meat.

COMMANDER FOREMAN
OF AMERICAN LEGION
TO SPEAK HERE MAY 19

Will Visit City During His Tour of State
for Legion.

Chicago, April 16.—The Illinois campaign to round up all ex-service men and women members of the American Legion began today when William Q. Sedlitz of Rockford, appointed by State Commander Milton J. Foreman to take charge of the downtown membership drive, left Chicago on a tour of preparation for the coming of the state commander. State Commander Foreman will take the stump personally for members of the state Legion.

There will be get-together meetings of veterans in all towns of the state and a personal house-to-house canvass of residents, factories and business houses for new names on the Legion rolls. Commander Foreman will be accompanied by Earl B. Searcy, state adjutant and other Illinois executives in the soldiers' sailors' body. The commander's speaking tour will begin on May 9 and will end on the 20th. From his office in Chicago he will go direct to Kankakee and address a noon meeting there. His next stop will be Champaign, where a dinner meeting will be held. At Danville he will speak in the evening and spend the night there. At Paris he will address a noon gathering on the 19th and at Mattoon will speak that evening. On the 11th he will talk at lunch in Effingham and at night in Centralia. Carbondale will greet him on the 12th at mid-day and Cairo the same evening.

The 13th will be occupied by meetings at Belleville and East St. Louis and on the 14th he will be in Quincy to tell the local ex-gobs and dough-boys why the Legion needs them and they the Legion.

At Springfield he will gather the buddies together the night of the 15th thence to Decatur and Bloomington by trolley. On the 16th he will address the Peorians and spend the night in that city. Galesburg will see him the next day and Rock Island that night.

From Rock Island he will go to Galena on the 18th, thence to Rockford. DeKalb and Dixon will turn out to hear his picturesque speech on the 19th. On the 20th he will cover LaSalle, Ottawa and Aurora; thence return to Chicago to culminate the drive and focus his attention on getting recruits in the metropolis.

Illinois has more than 50,000 paid up legionnaires now and the state commander declares that he will not be satisfied with any number short of 100,000 when the drive is completed. National Commander Franklin D'Olier said the other day that Illinois leads the world in membership gains proportionate to ex-service residents and commander Foreman urges that the lead be held. The drive will have the co-operation of ministers, schools and chambers of commerce throughout the state. It should be but a short time before all of the 300,000 veterans which Illinois includes in her population are working together in the great after-war fellowship.

Lady Grateful for Help
Received.

"For 15 years I suffered increasingly with stomach and liver trouble. Bloating with gas distressed me very much and caused serious heart fluttering. All medicine only relieved temporarily. I gave up hope of ever being cured. My druggist advised me one day to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I am feeling like a new woman since and can eat anything with no ill results." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists, everywhere.

"BEST IN THE WORLD"
SAYS FT. WAYNE MAN

Fred Adams Was All Run Down But Is Brimful of
New Life and Energy
Now.

"This is certainly the best medicine in the world," said Fred Adams, as he purchased his fourth bottle of Tanlac the other day, "and I want my statement published in all the papers so everybody may know what it has done for me."

Mr. Adams lives on R. F. D. 9, Fort Wayne. He is employed by the General Electric company as machinist and is highly respected by all who know him.

"Yes, sir," added Mr. Adams. "I count myself lucky that I got Tanlac. Why, I have already gained ten pounds in weight and have just finished my third bottle. Not only that but I have gotten rid of a case of stomach trouble that kept me miserable for two years as well as all the after effects of a case of "flu" that came near putting me out of business.

"When the 'flu' epidemic struck us about a year ago I was in such an awful run-down condition on account of indigestion that I was an easy victim. I had a spell that used me pretty rough and when I did get up my stomach, which had bothered me for two years, troubled me worse than ever. Besides that my head ached continually and I was so nervous I thought I would go distracted. I tried to work, but couldn't make it to save my life. I was bilious most of the time, my kidneys were out of order and my color was bad. I also had the backache and felt tired and worn out all the time.

"Since I began taking Tanlac I have gained ten pounds and feel like an entirely different man. I can eat just anything set before me and I never feel a pain or a sign of indigestion any more. Neither my kidneys nor liver bother me and my headaches and backaches are things of the past. I have also gotten rid of that tired feeling and am just brimful of new life and energy. Tanlac certainly does the work—at least it has in my case and now when I hear anyone complain of feeling run-down and bad I always tell them about Tanlac. Tanlac is sold in Dixon by The Public Drug & Book Co., and by the leading druggists in every town.

Yes, we'd pick this paint
for your house!

Indeed, we would! If you come to us and say, "What paint is the best for my house?" you'll get just one answer, "Du Pont Paints!"

Reason is simply that we know that Du Pont Paints are the best of the 400 makes of paint that are sold in this country. We have sold a lot of them here to people who were painting everything from entire houses to Kiddie Kars, and they carry the name of a great industrial concern that has always been associated with the biggest and best enterprises in the country, a concern that couldn't afford to have its name on any but a superior product.

When we sell paints to you, we have to be sure that you, our customer, are going to get the best there is. We want your trade next year, too. And we'll tell you frankly there isn't any better paint than Du Pont. We have a FULL line here.

THE WOMAN WHO LOVED--AND EARNED

GERRY'S FAILURE.
CHAPTER 113.

It was only to be expected that when he first became manager of the store Robert should feel the added responsibility enough to make him remain later than he formerly had done, and also engage his thoughts to the exclusion of other things.

Gradually, though, I began to resent his long hours.

"Is it absolutely necessary that you stay so late?" I asked. I had prepared my dinner—a nice one—for 7 o'clock. It was 8 o'clock when he came in, nearly a quarter past by the time he was ready to sit down, and the dinner consequently spoiled.

"If it were not, I wouldn't stay." "But, Robert, it makes the time hang very heavily for me; then, too, I so hate to have my nice meals spoiled, especially when I prepare the things I know you especially like."

"It's too bad, Gerry, but it can't be helped. By and by perhaps I shall get things running so that I can come home earlier. But just at present I have to make a record, you know."

"I know, and I don't mean to be selfish. Perhaps if I added an hour to my outside work the time wouldn't hang so heavily."

"You're a queer girl, Gerry. Most women would be glad of time to fuss around and read, or visit their friends."

"I like to do those things, too. But I'd rather visit when you can go with me. And you know I never was much of a reader, didn't get the habit when I was young."

I wouldn't have you infer that Robert and I were not still happy, for we were. He, I think, was absolutely so. He was so interested in his work, so pleased with and so happy in his home, that he seemed to wish for nothing more. Most of the time I, too, felt contented. Yet thoughts of the shop came to me more frequently, remembrances of the expert saleswoman I had been.

There was a reason for this outside of anything connected with Robert. I was falling backward in my work. No one had yet said so, as far as I knew, but I was almost painfully aware of it. Disgruntled, I thought of the old saying, "There is no standing still—one either goes forward or slips backward." I was slipping backward in my work.

This was only natural when I came to figure it out; to ask myself the reason. For over a year I had been using up my ideas gained in the shop. I had no way of getting new ones of the same class, so I was degenerating into the ordinary trimmer such as any one could hire for $2 a day, instead of $2 an hour.

Of course I had not yet quite arrived at that point, but I was first approaching it. One or two of my customers dropped off. I found new ones to take their place, but it showed which way the wind was blowing. I was glad to get the new ones, but it didn't much help the discouraged feeling I had at losing those with whom I had worked satisfactorily for a year.

"How in the world could I expect to keep up with the smart shops?" I grumbled. I knew that at Madame Leets we had had all the latest ideas from Europe as well as at home. Our imports were very heavy, and never hesitated to spend any amount to secure the latest, most exclusive models.

I had gone stale. I suppose it is so with all kinds of work. Away from the atmosphere, new ideas worked out daily, our work cannot help but deteriorate—as compared with that done under different conditions.

Now I spent some time in the shops. But the exclusive shops do not welcome people who simply look, and I could learn nothing of help to me or my clientele in the ordinary stores.

I lost two more customers. Mrs. Black was one of them. I had learned to like her very much, and was sorry that I could not please her. I knew that was it, although she made excuses of different sorts. She was trying not to hurt me.

Had I not been a business woman, had I not really loved my work, I would have given it up then and there and let Robert take care of me as best he could—which now was very well indeed. But living was high, clothes cost more than before the war, as did everything we needed. We would have to give up the idea of a little home in the suburbs unless I could help.

I must find some way to keep my home just as I was keeping it, and still do the work I loved if I was to make our dream of a home of our own come true.

Tomorrow—A Promising Plan.
